Dear Families,

The diagnostic assessment period is over, and students are now fully engaged in their learning. Progress reports and the Semester 1 report card will reach you at the beginning of November to update you on their learning.

Despite the hustle and bustle of classes, the Franco-Jeunesse school firmly believes that education goes well beyond the classroom walls. That is why we are proud to offer a rich variety of extracurricular activities that stimulate creativity, innovation, and community engagement.

This year, during our back-to-school picnic, we officially announced our clubs. Thus, students will have the opportunity to express themselves through improvisation, to groove to the rhythm of music, to create passionately in the visual arts, to reflect on their impact on the planet through our ecology projects, and to delve into the fascinating world of robotics and drones.

We also value the voice of our young people: they will participate in the creation of our school yearbook and the production of television capsules to share school news with the entire community. These initiatives reflect our commitment to a dynamic, inclusive, and future-oriented education. Thank you for supporting your children in their passions and discoveries.

Sincerely,
